About Me

I'm Petros Asmamaw, a front-end web developer.
I specialize in building responsive and dynamic websites.
My main focus is creating modern applications with React.
Passionate about delivering clean, engaging, and user-friendly design

React

React is my primary focus in front-end development.
I use it to build fast, interactive, and scalable web applications.
Its component-based structure allows me to create reusable UI elements.
I leverage React hooks for efficient state and effect management.
With React Router, I build smooth and dynamic navigation experiences.
I stay updated with React's latest features to deliver modern, high-quality apps.
